The next featured employee For #StateEmployeeRecognitionDay is Jennifer Schrempp, who works at the @SDAgriculture! Nicely done, Jennifer! #SouthDakota

Jennifer Schrempp, Department of Agriculture, 6 years... Jennifer Schrempp has been managing the daily financial operations of the SDDA central finance office by herself for eight months because of the announced absence of a co-worker. While SDDA has always operated with a central finance office, Jennifer has exceeded all expectations with financial operations functioning during this time. Jennifer has many employees, partners, and staff from other agencies who rely on her for the day-to-day fiscal management of the agency. Jennifer's ability to problem solve and communicate effectively have been essential to ensuring SDDA's success. Jennifer is a hard worker and SDDA is lucky to have her on our team," Chris Petersen, the SDDA Finance, said. Eagle Butte native led the charge to launch a website for elevators and their fees, which generally add up to around $17 million a year. It used to take hours a day to process manual payments. Ninety percent of elevator payments were made through the website saving both SDDA and elevator personnel a lot of time. It has been a two-year process," Schrempp said. "We launched the site last year and it has been a big time saver." Mitchell Tech and Dakota Wesleyan graduate is the mother of three children. She is a busy woman juggling the work of a mother, a wife, and a professional. When she isn't juggling the work of a mother, a wife, and a professional, she is either running kids to sports or heading to work to help. Jennifer has asked how she does it all, Schrempp said, "One day at a time and with the help of my family and friends. I understand and help whenever they can."

The next featured employee For State Employee Recognition Day is Judy Hoscheid, who works at the Department of Social Services. Great job, Judy! #SouthDakota

Judy Hoscheid, Department of Social Services, 39 years old, will say goodbye to her 39-year career in state government today. Judy Hoscheid will be retiring from her family, including her daughters, 12 grandchildren, and her Department of Social Services (DSS) and has oversight of the Auxiliary Placement program for children in need of psychiatric residential treatment services, school districts and Mental Health Professionals who want to get help." Hoscheid said, "It has been a very rewarding experience. In DSS, the registered nurse from Presentation College and then in the Medicaid Fraud Unit for the Attorney General's office. Her commitment to the Department of Social Services, the children and families that she works with," Carrie Johnson said, "I am proud of everything she possibly can and in the most appropriate way."

The next featured employee For State Employee Appreciation Day is Mackenzie Decker, who works at the @SouthDakotaDLR. Great job, Mackenzie! #SouthDakota

#SouthDakota

Mackenzie Decker, Department of Labor and Regulation, 2 years

Mackenzie Decker loves a challenge, and she is excelling at her most recent career test, overseeing special communications and taking on special projects for the Department of Labor and Regulation (DLR).

Beyond managing agency correspondence, the DLR intranet, and the Dakota Roots and Start Today 5 marketing campaigns, Decker has spent the last year helping write and organize information on new general policies for the Workforce Training Division to be referenced by the 16 job service offices around the state. When she isn't working to ensure federal policy is clear and easy to understand, she serves as an Impact DLR Lean coach. (Lean is an organizational management approach focusing on continuous improvement, efficiency, and quality.)

Mackenzie brings enthusiasm and astuteness to every project assigned to her. She welcomes challenges to push herself to new levels professionally, and at the same time, also wants the team she is working with to excel and succeed too," said Dawn Dvorre, Director of Public Affairs. "Mackenzie's fun personality and quick sense of humor perfectly balance her can-do attitude and intelligence, making her a colleague you love to be around."

A South Dakota State University graduate first joined the DLR team in 2011 before relocating to Virginia with her husband Dalton. The duo moved back to South Dakota, and Mackenzie worked for the South Dakota Lottery and the Governor's Office of Economic Development before returning to her first job as a state government employee, DLR.

"I've had the chance to move around to different positions in state government," Decker said. "If I'm open to change and ready for a challenge, there can be a variety of opportunities in state government. I like the flexibility of finding the right fit without changing employers."

Mackenzie coaches youth club volleyball and enjoys fishing on Lake Oahe. And the Minnesota native's next challenge is all lined up. She is expecting her first child at the end of the summer.

Our next featured employee For State Employee Appreciation Day is June Snyder, who works at the South Dakota Department of Public Safety. Great job, June! #SouthDakota

June Snyder, Department of Public Safety, 32 years

June spent her career helping people on behalf of the people of South Dakota. In 32 years, she has worked in various positions including Vocational Rehabilitation, Human Services, Health, and Public Safety.

In addition to her work at the Department of Public Safety, June has worked for other agencies for the Office of Homeland Security since 2010. She likes to support volunteer fire departments and volunteer ambulance services.

"Many of our agencies have no budget and are having a hard time so they can operate," Snyder said. "We try to respond in any way possible. They are so important to all of our communities."

June's supervisor, Stefan Pluta, June has been known to put out a few fires of her own. When an outside vendor unexpectedly cancelled training, which was to have been a new process and program, June readily developed a contingency training plan to meet the deadlines which were previously established. This included coordinating with other agencies as well as responding to multiple inquiries," Pluta said.

June said she was honored to be featured on State Employee Recognition Day.

Due to an office subject to some employee turnover, June has established excellent relationships and has taken upon herself to mentor new employees, instilling positive attributes and a positive demeanor in working with all with whom she has contact reflects positive government."

The first of our State Employee Recognition Day spotlights - BHR's own Rachel Edwards! #SouthDakota

Rachel Edwards, Bureau of Human Resources, 13 years

Rachel is quiet, shy and unassuming. She is behind the scenes, using her computer skills and personality to make things happen.

She has been in state government with working in the Training division for 13 years. She started in state government with working in the Training division where she had to register email manually. It was so inefficient and inaccurate that she had to register email manually. She quietly processed all the emails that were sent to her. She solved problems every day.

"Rachel, she has always been willing to do anything she is asked, less than anything," Ellen Zeller, Rachel's supervisor said. "When I was a secretary, I routinely received emails from her 'customers' saying thank you. And even now in her new role with Talent Acquisition, we receive emails from her saying she is helped."

Rachel goes above and beyond most days. That's how she rolls."

Rachel was promoted to program assistant. Now, you can find the avic for the state's internship program, overseeing support staff services for the state. It crosses her path.
